

Sir:

I commend the ICCVAM for moving toward non-animal testing. While using non-animal testing methods as part of an integrated testing scheme (in which animal tests may be used to confirm the non-animal test results) is, however, not enough. The suffering of animals for these cruel experiments should be eliminated altogether. I hope all animal experiments will be stopped in the immediate future.

Thank you,
Christina Borra